

My dis means that the powder,
Vanished in the liquid;
She unravels the puzzle,
When no one thought she could.

What am I?

My ward is turned around,
It seems to face the rear;
My fire sounds like a shot,
My up can ease your fear.

What am I?

My down means that the rain,
Is coming down in buckets;
Alone I mean the duke,
Is running out of ducats.

What am I?

My nick is a meal,
That you eat out of doors;
My up is a small truck,
Replacing cart and horse.

What am I?
